Azmina Jasani Named Partner at Constantine Cannon LLP
Jasani is a partner in the Arts and Cultural Property practice based in London

LONDON, September 17, 2019 – Constantine Cannon LLP is proud to announce that Azmina Jasani has been promoted to partner. Azmina is a dual qualified lawyer in England and New York with nearly a decade’s experience representing clients in the art and luxury sector. As a leading art law and luxury assets specialist, she advises artists, private and corporate collectors, galleries and dealers, luxury businesses, auction houses, financial institutions and museums on contentious and non-contentious matters.

Azmina is consistently ranked as a leader by both Chambers & Partners and Legal 500 in their High Net Worth and Art and Cultural Property Law categories. In those rankings, clients have said the following about her: “[Azmina] is dual-qualified, so can provide some very beneficial and pragmatic guidance to clients on international issues, especially in relation to transatlantic issues”, “she is extremely helpful and her advice and documentation is very clear”, “she is precise, clear-thinking and has a sharp mind”, “she is meticulous, client-oriented and well versed in both UK and US laws” and “[Azmina] is easy and straightforward to deal with as well as diligent and effective.”

Pierre Valentin, the lead partner of Constantine Cannon’s Arts and Cultural Property practice said: “We are delighted that Azmina Jasani has joined the partnership. Azmina has demonstrated commitment to delivering great service to our clients through her expertise and exceptional work ethics. Azmina will play a key role in the future development of the Firm and its Art and Cultural Property Law practice.”
